1. Implementation of E-governance in areas of operation

Implementation of E-governance in areas of operation	▪ Administration
	▪ Finance and Account
	▪ Student Admission and Support
	▪ Examination

This certifies that E-governance has been applied in the following areas.

- Administration
- Finance and Account
- Student Admission and Support
- Examination

E-governance plays a crucial role in the effective functioning of academic institutes. Here are some key reasons why e-governance is important for academic institutes:

- Streamlined Administrative Processes: E-governance helps academic institutes streamline their administrative processes, reducing paperwork, manual tasks, and repetitive activities. It enables the automation of various administrative functions such as admissions, registration, fee payments, course allocation, and student record management. This leads to increased efficiency, reduced errors, and improved productivity among staff members.
- Enhanced Communication and Collaboration: E-governance facilitates effective communication and collaboration within the academic institute. Online platforms, such as intranets or communication tools, enable seamless sharing of information among faculty, staff, and students. It allows for quick dissemination of announcements, updates, and important notices. Collaboration tools and virtual classrooms enable online discussions, project work, and group collaborations, promoting a dynamic learning environment.

- Improved Access to Information: E-governance ensures easy and quick access to information for all stakeholders in the academic institute. Students can access course materials, assignments, and grades online, allowing them to stay organized and track their progress. Faculty members can upload and share resources, create online quizzes, and provide timely feedback to students. Staff members can access relevant administrative information and reports, facilitating informed decision-making.
- Efficient Management of Academic Resources: E-governance enables effective management of academic resources such as libraries, research facilities, and equipment. Online cataloging systems and digital libraries make it easier for students and researchers to search and access resources. It facilitates the reservation and tracking of equipment and facilities, optimizing their utilization and minimizing conflicts. This leads to efficient resource allocation and cost savings.
- Data Management and Analytics: E-governance enables academic institutes to collect, store, and analyze data for various purposes. Student information systems and learning management systems capture data on student performance, attendance, and engagement. This data can be analyzed to identify patterns, trends, and areas of improvement. Insights gained from data analytics can help academic institutes make data-driven decisions to enhance teaching methodologies, student support systems, and overall academic performance.
- Increased Transparency and Accountability: E-governance promotes transparency and accountability within academic institutes. Online portals and systems enable students, parents, and other stakeholders to access information related to courses, curriculum, faculty profiles, and academic policies. Transparent processes for admissions, examinations, and grading ensure fairness and eliminate favoritism. E-governance also facilitates effective monitoring and evaluation of academic performance and institutional quality.

- Distance Learning and Online Education: E-governance is particularly important for academic institutes offering distance learning programs or online education. It provides the necessary infrastructure for delivering courses online, managing virtual classrooms, and conducting online assessments. E-governance platforms can support the delivery of synchronous and asynchronous learning experiences, enabling students to access education regardless of their physical location.

1) ADMINISTRATION

In order to provide the stakeholders of the institute with simple services and a greener environment, the numerous day-to-day administrative tasks of the Institute require the usage of ICT and e-Governance. The institute uses the e-Government tools listed below.

A) Institute Website: Since the beginning of the institute, there has been a website for it at <http://www.skcp.org.in>. On a regular basis, the institute website posts various circulars, notices, and information. From this website, stakeholders can access the most recent information.

B) Emails with Institute affiliation: A unique email address associated with the institute is given to each staff.

C) ERP Software: The college management system, which is part of the institute's ERP software, is utilized for daily operations.

D) Biometric System: The use of the biometric attendance system for employees helps with salary planning by keeping track of their daily attendance..

E) Administrative Circulars/Notices: Notices and other administrative information are routinely posted on the website.

F) Social Media: The staff and student Whatsapp group has been developed as a social media platform where quick bulletins, circulars, and information pertaining to administration, academics, placements, and events can be shared. Whatsapp Groups are also used to spread knowledge and ensure that the platform runs smoothly.

G) Magazine, Newsletters: Magazines and bulletins are published online as e-copies on the institute website for convenient access by stakeholders.

H) Online Meeting Software: The institute uses Google Meet or Zoom to conduct meetings of its different administrative bodies wherever they are needed.

2. FINANCE AND ACCOUNT

The institute has a computerized accounting system that allows all accounting systems to be easily provided to the institute's stakeholders. Additionally, the system encourages all parties involved to conduct business electronically to avoid fraudulent activity.

10. ERP Software for Accounting: Tally, an ERP programme, is used to maintain the institution's accounting. This software is used to record all daily transactions, including fees collected from students.

11. Computerized Accounting System: From this software, the several reports for the accounts, such as Receipts & Payment, General Ledger, etc., are downloaded. This is beneficial when the institute's accounts are being audited internally and externally.

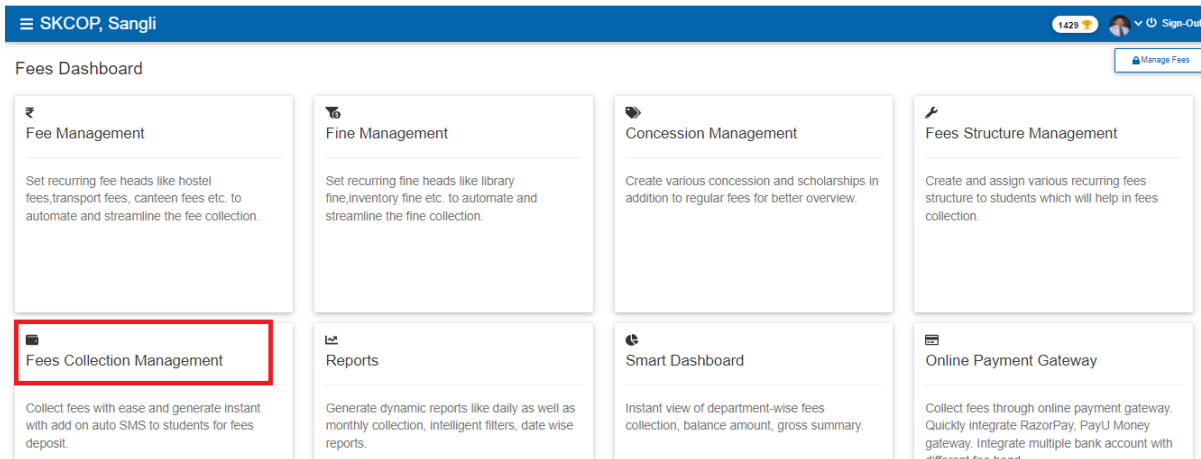

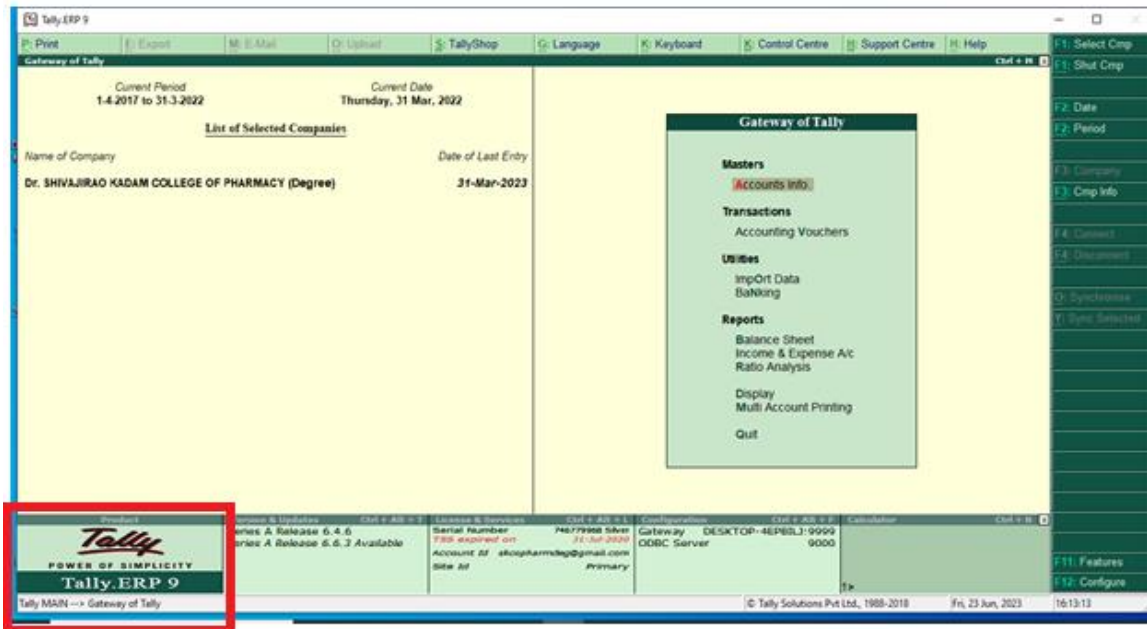

12. Online Transactions: Through secure interfaces, the institution accepts all forms of digital payment systems. Online banking, NEFT/RTGS, IMPS, Google Pay, Phone Pay, UPI, and other digital platforms are used to make payments to third parties, regulatory bodies, and other entities.

3. STUDENT & ADMISSION SUPPORT

Through Vmedulife Software's student category, e-Government is kept up to date. This software allows for the printing of numerous reports and documents. As a result, the pupils receive quick service. This promotes paperless work. Students are given access to a variety of e-services, including:

13. Student Support Facilities: The software Vmedulife handles all aspects of student admission and data entry. At the time of admission, all the documents were scanned and put onto software.

14. Reports and certifications Facility for student: From this Vmedulife software/A-square system, all of the student reports and certificates, such as the leaving certificate, transfer certificate, bonafide certificate, study certificate, etc., can be downloaded.

15. Library Management System: A library is outfitted with the "Easy and Useful Vmedulife software" library management system, which provides access to all book records. Daily book transactions performed using this programme. The institute also has a digital library and an e-library, both of which aid students in their online learning. Additionally, there is an e-resources facility that offers e-journals, ebooks, databases, and theses through DELNET, Shodhaganga, and National Digital Library.

16. Educational Software's: The institute makes use of a variety of software that is needed for educational purposes. Design Expert, Microsoft Office, Language Lab Software, Adobe Reader, etc. are a few of them: Students have easy access to these software programmes, which assist them in creating project reports, theses, and other academic assignments including seminars and practical work.

17. Notices and Circulars: On the website, notices pertaining to student benefits, such as scholarships and exams, are also available.

18. Internet facility: For instructional purposes, LAN and Wi-Fi internet access has been made available to students in the computer lab and library. This aids pupils in acquiring additional educational knowledge, materials, etc.
